Description

without stilling is a meditation on form, a discourse expressing considered thoughts over time, allowing the agency within the work to prompt changes and nuance in detailing as it emerges. without stilling is a series of gestures gathering agency and force as the accumulation increased with intensity. The form evolves into a circular movement tempered and modulated though individual tensions of the elements, folding in on themselves. There is a ragged edge to the outer skin, feeding off and seeking new spatiality, an acknowledgement to the rogue and unpredictable nature of exteriority
